

ABSTRACT OF DISCLOSURE

A microelectronic device and methods of fabricating the same comprising disposing an underfill material between a substrate and a flip chip by providing a hole through the substrate wherein the underfill material is injected therethrough.